Content:

The objective of this research is to develop English teaching material based on the environmental care character completed with the electronic media. It is assumed that learning English with the use of this teaching material, the students will unconsciously be able to develop their awareness to take care of the environment around them where they stay.

In this study therefore, the researchers employ Research and Development (R & D) design with 300 students taken randomly as a sample from 10 Junior High Schools in Semarang. The followings are the steps taken during the study (1) carrying out an observation to find out the availability of English teaching material used at schools. In this case, the researchers interview some teachers and students to get the information dealing with the English teaching material used and to see whether the teaching material has already fulfilled the need of the teachers and students (2) carrying out need analysis to the teachers and students need for developing the English teaching material based on the character of environmental care completed with electronic media in order to get the information on the teachers and students needs, the researchers distribute questionnaire. (3) The next step developing English teaching material based on the character of environmental care completed with electronic media (4) finally, the researchers carry out an experiment to find out the effectiveness of the English teaching material based on the character of environmental care completed with the electronic media in students character and English competence.
